Electrovaya Reaches Agreement With CompUSA To Sell Its PowerPad Line Of Products

TORONTO, ONTARIO--Electrovaya Inc. (TSX: EFL) and CompUSA Inc., America's leading retailer and reseller of personal computer-related products and services, have agreed to market Electrovaya's PowerPad range of hi-capacity external notebook battery products via the CompUSA multi-channel Where America Buys Technology (TM) sales platform.

According to Pat McCool, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Electrovaya, "CompUSA's extensive network of corporate, government and education customers will ensure that Electrovaya's PowerPad product line is now available to a broader base of customers. This availability, in conjunction with our increased marketing efforts to these customers, will work to further drive demand for Electrovaya's products."

The PowerPad has the highest energy density of any rechargeable battery commercially available in the world. By running a laptop computer up to six times longer than current internal batteries, without recharging, the PowerPad offers freedom and mobility for its users without the need of being tethered to a wall plug.
